

6. What advice would you give someone who would like to pursue a career in your field?

The education field is a passion and a calling. This is not a field for people who wish to get rich quick, or want an easy work day. Flexibility, commitment, and “outside the box” thinking are required in order to be successful for both yourself and your students. As an educator, you are also always a student. Be prepared to be a lifelong learner and be ready to challenge yourself to always be more, so you can give more.
