Respiratory COVID-19 infection

Respiratory COVID-19 infection

The faculty, staff, and administration of Middle Georgia State University (MGAU) are pleased to announce that the university has been approved for a temporary closure of its campus to all non-MGAU students, faculty, and staff, effective starting on Monday, March 23, 2020, through the end of the semester on Friday, May 1, 2020. This decision was made in response to the current public health concerns regarding the spread of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19).

The university's primary concern is the health and safety of its community members. We understand that this decision may be challenging for many of our students, faculty, and staff, but we believe this is the best course of action to take at this time. We will continue to monitor the situation and provide updates as they become available. We appreciate your understanding and support during this difficult time. We will be in contact with you again as the situation evolves. Thank you for your cooperation and commitment to the university community. We look forward to welcoming you back to campus when it is safe to do so. Sincerely, Middle Georgia State University

1) Although there are many different types of COVID-19 infections, the most common type is a respiratory infection that causes symptoms such as coughing, sneezing, and difficulty breathing. This type of infection is spread through the air when an infected person coughs or sneezes. It can also be spread through contact with an infected person's saliva, such as when they kiss or share a drink.
